LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

The girls of the South San Francisco grammar school have organized a club, and will hold their first meeting on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30, at the "Diamond Palace." For further information for the members of the club, inquire of the President, Agnes Karbe. Mary Carmody, Secretary.

In some mysterious way a shed at the rear of the premises occupied by B. Hendele, on Baden avenue, near Magnolia, caught fire about 3 o'clock last Tuesday morning, and was completely destroyed. The alarm was given too late for the fire department to get there and save it.

Last Tuesday what came near being a serious accident occurred in this city. While driving along Grand avenue in his wagon J. B. (Pop) Seivers and T. C. McGovern were thrown to the street, caused by a team driven by an Italian gardener colliding with the wagon they were in. One of McGovern's hips was severely bruised, and Seivers luckily held on to the reins of his horse, which prevented the animal from running away, and saving Seivers from a possible death.

Judge A. McSweeney has been kept busy since election day receiving congratulations over his success in being elected county tax collector. He had a strong opponent in Henry T. Butts, the democratic nominee, but after an unusually active canvass of the county "our Amby" won out. The Enterprise congratulates the people of the county in electing the judge, as he is thoroughly efficient and will give good service. Of course, our home people are also pleased that Dr. Harry Plymire has been re-elected. The election of Judge McSweeney makes two representatives from this city among the county officials.

Changes in trains which are of interest to the people of this city and San Bruno will commence next Monday. The early morning train that has been leaving San Bruno for San Francisco at 6:15, and this city at 6:25, will leave at 6:03 at San Bruno, and here at 6:07, making stops at all stations. The afternoon train, No. 23, that leaves San Mateo for San Francisco at 3:26 will hereafter stop in this city. This change will be of considerable benefit to quite a number of scholars of this city who are attending high school in San Mateo, and heretofore were not able to be back here until 5:30 p. m.

J. J. BULLOCK HAS A CLOSE CALL

District Attorney Bullock, while returning to his home in Beresford from Redwood City yesterday evening had a close call to losing his life by a San Francisco evening train striking his automobile in which he was riding and reducing it to a scrap heap. He had managed to cross the north track of the railroad at the Beresford crossing, but when the south track was reached his engine was suddenly "killed." Bullock worked his spark and throttle for a few seconds without avail, and was about to climb out of the car to try the crank when the headlight of the locomotive flashed upon him. Bullock's leap for life was made just in time. Had he hesitated a second he would have been killed. The locomotive crashed into the machine and carried it more than 200 yards before a stop could be made. Bullock did not wait to investigate the result of the collision, but made his way quickly to his home. The train service was delayed for more than half an hour.

For Rent.—Upper and lower flats, four and five rooms. Inquire D. O. Daggett, 411 Linden avenue.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Resolution to Purchase Land for Public Park Passed—Fire Apparatus May Be Insured

The city board of trustees met in regular weekly session in the city hall last Monday night.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, Chairman McSweeney announced to the citizens present that a series of mass meetings would soon be held under the auspices of the board at which citizens could discuss the advisability of calling a special election at which votes can be cast in favor of or against a $40,000 or $50,000 bond issue for installing a modern sewer system in this city.

A written application from M. Foley for the position of street superintendent was received, and upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee Healy, accepted and ordered placed on file.

A communication was received from Chas. H. Woodman, secretary of Hose Co. No. 1, stating that at a meeting held on the previous Wednesday evening the company had voted to recommend that the city board of trustees have insurance placed on the city's fire apparatus and hose houses.

Referred to the street, light and fire committee to investigate of report at next meeting.

A communication was received from R. C. Leonard objecting to the difference in grade between the new cement sidewalks just completed on lower Grand avenue and some of the old.

Upon motion, the communication was accepted and ordered placed on file.

Trustee Healy, for the street committee, reported that Mission road was being graded by Supervisor Casey.

Several claims against the city were presented and referred to the finance committee.

The bids to lay concrete curbs and cement sidewalks on portions of Commercial, Baden, Miller and Lux avenues, that were opened at the previous meeting and laid over for one week, were laid over another week to be acted on, upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee Healy.

Trustee Healy introduced a resolution offering to lease two blocks (about ten acres) of land between Aspen and Armour, and Linden and Maple avenues, for a period of ten years, from the local land company, at a rental of $250 per year, for public park purposes, with an option to buy the land for $1000 per acre at any time before the expiration of the lease.

Upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee McGovern, the resolution was adopted.

A contract between the city and the Peninsula Material Co., for macadamizing a portion of Mission road, which work had been awarded that company at the previous meeting, was presented by City Attorney Styles and upon motion adopted, and Chairman McSweeney authorized to sign it in behalf of the city.

Mr. Collins, of Wygant & Collins, the firm that laid concrete curbs and cement sidewalks on both sides Grand avenue, between Division street and Maple avenue, appeared before the board and stated that the work had been completed, and asked that it be accepted.

Upon motion of Trustee Cunningham, seconded by Trustee McGovern, it was decided that the street committee in company with Superintendent of Streets Kneese would inspect the completed work Wednesday morning and report at the next meeting of the board.

Clerk Smith was instructed to communicate with W. B. Lawrence, superintendent for the Spring Valley Water Company for San Mateo county, and request him to be present at the meeting of the board next Monday night, and explain about the matter of lowering the large water main in San Bruno road.

The city intends ordering curb and sidewalk work on the west side of that street, and it is necessary that the main be lowered before the improvement can be made.

Ready For the Slaughter.

There was a famous temperance lecturer in Scotland who was noted for his spectacular methods. On one occasion in a lecture in Glasgow he used for illustration a glass of water, a glass of whisky and a box of live worms. He would drop a worm into the water and show how it wriggled. Then, dropping it into the whisky, he would exclaim: "There! One convulsive shudder and it is all over!"

"Haud on, there, maister! Are ye sure 'tis the liquor killed the pur worm?" a voice in the audience asked. "Quite sure, my friend," replied the lecturer. "No doubt whatever." "A-weel, then, just pass over the whisky. I'm bothered wi' worms."

Don't Worry.

Whatever you do, don't worry. If you fret, the wrinkles will grow. A bright, cheerful smile will trouble beguile. And dispel even mountains of woe. There's nothing so catching as laughter. It drives death off back to its lair, it acts on the nerves, it good health preserves. And annihilates loads of despair.

Then let it come out when you feel it. Don't check it, but give it full play. It will drive away grief if there's any around. And illumine like sunshine your day. 'Tis like silvery moonlight at evening. It lights up life's dark, stormy way. Does good honest laughter. 'Tis that that we're after.

Then let us give it full play.
—Frank Marion.

Wanted Action.

A young fellow in England left home and was not heard of for three years. At the end of that period he returned and said that he had become an actor— in fact, he had procured a splendid engagement with a gentleman named Henry Irving. The father was so overjoyed that he mustered a large party of friends, and they attended in a body at the Lyceum, which is a theater somewhere in London. The first act ended, but that man's son had not put in an appearance. The second act ended. Same result. The father was in an agony of perspiration. Toward the end of the third act on walked the son, carrying a gun, but with nothing to say for himself. He was merely a super. He strutted up and down the stage a couple of times. But the father could stand it no longer. Becoming excited, he leaned over the balcony and shouted: "For heaven's sake, Jim, do something! If they won't let you speak, shoot the gun off!"

Roland Took Precautions.

Roland is a little boy who learns things quickly. Not long ago he heard some one swear, and he immediately appropriated the word for his own use. The next time he got mad at his nurse he used the word which begins with a "d" in addressing her. She told his grandfather. The grandfather wrote Roland a letter, in which he said it was terribly bad to use the word. He also stated that a little bird had told him that Roland had used it. The letter when read to the boy made a deep impression on him. A few days later he and his nurse were out in the yard when Roland became provoked at her.

"Say, nurse," he said, "is they any little birds around here?"

"No," replied the nurse, not just now."

"Well, then," said Roland, "you're a d— fool."—Denver Post.

Applying the Story.

The young minister addressing a gathering of Sunday school teachers, among whom were many maidens of uncertain age, sought to drive in the gospel of soul saving with a story. He told about a battle in the civil war where the armies of the north and the south were drawn up on the opposite sides of a valley.

"The commander of the brave boys in blue," said the preacher, warming to his subject, "ordered his men to charge. They did so, rushing down the hillsides like a mighty wave and up the opposite slope to the very crest. There they were beaten back, all but one brave hero, who, grappling with the leader of the Confederates, tore him from the back of his horse and carried him by main force back to the reforming lines of his comrades, saying: 'If you all had done the same we would now have all of our enemies in bonds. There was a man for each of you.'

"And that is what I want to impress upon you this evening," continued the minister. "Brothers, there is a man for each of you if you but show the determination to get him. Sisters, there is a man to be captured by each of you." But here the preacher's tongue failed him for an instant. When he recovered he realized that another battle had been lost.—Philadelphia Times.

HIS BRIGHT IDEA.

He Worked It Successfully, and Yet He Wasn't Satisfied.

Dawn was breaking over the city when Mr. North Side ambled into an all night restaurant. It was still breaking when he finished his humble meal and placed what he supposed was a dime on the cashier's desk.

"Could almost tie knots in this one," remarked the cashier as she shoved the coin back. "Lead," she explained. North Side took the piece, looked at it critically, dropped it back into his pocket and fished for the "price." Two cents and a nickel rewarded his search.

The cashier had a lien on the nickel and foreclosed the lien. Mr. North Side wondered how he would get home on the 2 cents and a lead dime.

Walking was not to his liking, but it was either that or go begging, he concluded, as he emerged to the sidewalk. As he was standing there debating which alternative to follow a professional tramp shuffled up and asked for the price of a breakfast.

North Side waved the man aside. The beggar, however, was insistent. In order to get rid of him North Side remarked:

"Don't you see I'm in the same graft? You're on my beat."

"Quit kidding!" returned the beggar. "If you don't feel like giving a quarter give a dime or a nickel."

This gave North Side an idea. "Have you got a nickel?" he asked. "Yes? Then give it to me and I'll give you a dime. You deserve something for persevering so."

The beggar dug up a nickel from his trousers pocket, and the exchange was made. North Side waited to see the tramp quickstep around the corner and chuckled as he thought of the beggar's surprise when he tried to convert his dime into food. He darted up the elevated stairs. There was exaltation in his manner as he pushed the nickel over to the ticket agent. She pushed it back with one comment: "Lead."

North Side walked.—Chicago News.

Limited Power.

An American concert manager tells of an English singer whose voice, of great sweetness of tone and wonderful compass, was yet so powerful that no orchestra could drown its tones.

On the occasions when this singer's husband acted as her musical manager he appeared especially anxious to impress the audience with this fact of the great power of her voice and more than once displayed his desire in an amusing way. At one time the lady was rehearsing for a concert to be given in a large hall, and in one of her songs she was to be accompanied by a trombone obligato. The trombonist blew with all his might, but his best efforts met with a call of "Louder, louder!" from the insatiable conductor.

Finally the musician laid down his instrument and, surveying the husband, with indignation on his purple face, gasped, "Louder und louder is very easy to say, but vere is der vind?"

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

With the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, now rapidly being constructed, South San Francisco will have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Baden Brick Company, Pacific Jupiter Steel Company, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, and other enterprises, all of which are in full operation to-day. The American Smelting and Refining Company has purchased over 300 acres of land in South San Francisco for the purpose of erecting a great plant, which they estimate will cost upwards of $5,000,000. The Doak Sheet Steel Company has purchased a large tract of land and has already commenced the construction of a large rolling mill. Other factories have recently made purchases, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

The sound and fury of political controversy have subsided; the noise of charge and counter-charge has ceased, and the voice of slander has spent itself and is silent. The quadrennial political battle of this big country has been fought to a finish and the struggle is over and ended.

Republican progressives won in the West, and republican stand-patters lost in the East. The democratic party, without any well defined policy, and without national leadership, is the beneficiary of republican mistakes and popular unrest, and comes into control of the lower house of congress, and looms large on the political horizon for the time being.

It is the old, old story of an opposition victory in an off-year.

The natural effect will be to make the republican party out and out progressive. With a reconstructed republican party, thoroughly imbued with progressive policies, two years hence the political pendulum will swing back, and the republican progressive policy will sweep the country, re-electing Taft and carrying both houses of congress. This result is inevitable by reason of the character and tendencies of the modern democratic party.

In this republican county of San Mateo, fortunately or unfortunately, the recent election has further divided the county offices.

The democratic party has the judge of the superior court, the district attorney, the sheriff, and a majority of the board of supervisors.

The republicans have the other officers, but as these are merely clerical, they do not count in shaping the general policy and control of county government.

The democratic party is for the first time in many years in control of the county government for four years.

It is responsible for the conduct of county business.

If there has been malfeasance or corruption in office, the party in power must sift the wrongdoing and find the truth, and see that justice is done. It must clear the record and keep it clean.

This is no light task, but it is a work which if taken up earnestly and courageously will be endorsed and upheld by the people regardless of party.

DEATH FROM POWER WIRE

Farmer Is Killed by High Power Wire a Half-Mile Distant.

Grabbing hold of the wire netting that inclosed his chicken yard, in an endeavor to stamp out the flames about the framework of the fence, F. C. Vargas, a farmer residing near Estudillo station, San Leandro, Cal., was instantly killed shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, when a charge of several thousand volts of electricity passed through his body.

The current came from a high power wire of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, which had broken and fallen across a barbed-wire fence at a point nearly half a mile away, the deadly current bashing along the tortuous route of the wire strands until it reached the chicken house of Vargas, to which the fence was attached.

According to Mrs. Vargas, she was awakened a few minutes after 5 o'clock in the morning by a peculiar sizzling noise and the crackle of flames. Jumping out of bed, she found flames running along the planks to which the wire netting was attached. Arousing her husband, she grabbed a bucket of water and hastened to fight the fire, Vargas following close behind.

While Vargas ran up close to the fire, evidently intending to kick the burning timbers out into the yard before the chicken house itself caught. Mrs. Vargas stood at some distance away and threw the bucket of water. Instantly there was a flash, and Mrs. Vargas was knocked unconscious to the ground.

When she recovered consciousness, a few minutes later, she saw her husband stretched full length on the ground. Going to arouse him, she found he was dead. From the blackened, seared condition of his hands, he evidently had come in contact with the deadly wires of the fence.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Urges People to Give Thanks for Peace and Prosperity

The progress of the country as reflected by the records of population and harvests and the general conditions of international peace are things for which thanksgiving is especially due for the year 1910, according to the annual Thanksgiving proclamation issued by President Taft. The proclamation is as follows:

"This year of 1910 is drawing to a close. The records of population and harvests, which are the index of progress, show vigorous national growth, and the health and prosperous well-being of our communities throughout this land and in our possessions beyond the seas. These blessings have not descended upon us in restricted measure, but overflow and abound. They are the blessings and bounty of God.

"We continue to be at peace with the rest of the world. In all essential matters our relations with other peoples are harmonious, with an ever-growing reality of friendliness and depth of recognition of mutual dependence. It is especially to be noted that during the last year great progress has been achieved in the cause of arbitration and the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

"Now, therefore, I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States of America, in accordance with the wise custom of the civil magistrates since the first settlements in this land, and with the rule established from the foundation of this Government, do appoint Thursday, November 24, 1910, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, enjoining the people upon that day to meet in their churches for the praise of Almighty God, and to return heartfelt thanks to him for all his goodness and loving kindness.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this, the 5th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1910, and of the independence of the United States the 135th. "WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

Missionary Says That Chinese Will Resist Imperial Edict.

Bishop F. R. Graves, who for many years has been engaged in missionary work in China in the interests of the Episcopal Church, is in San Francisco for the purpose of sailing for Shanghai on the steamship Korea. He says his experience with the Chinese during his thirty-three years' service inclines him to believe that the recent drastic edict of the Chinese Emperor requiring the cutting off of queues will cause much trouble in all portions of the empire.

"When I consider the deep sentiment with which the average Chinese associates the wearing of the queue," said Bishop Graves, "I believe that the order of the Emperor is bound to bring much trouble. The old sentiment is McDonald has never been tried and Long thinks he has enough pitchers in working order without Stewart, who has had anything but a good year.

Emperor Nicholas of Russia hunted recently in Emperor William's new game preserves near Oranenburg, twenty-six miles northeast of Potsdam. A battalion of soldiers, with foresters, had been engaged for some days in assembling some 1500 deer, hare and other four-footed game within an inclosure, and the animals were driven out past a line of platforms encircled by pine branches, and upon which the royal party and twenty-two other court hunters had taken positions ready for the killing. Emperor Nicholas was permitted the first shot. The forest was thoroughly searched by troops to make sure that it contained no one whose presence was unauthorized.

Great flights of wild geese have made their appearance in the up-river tule sections within the past fortnight. Many big bags of geese have recently been shot in the vicinity of Rio Vista, Cal. ### Kansas Loaf Must Weigh Full Pound.

so deeply rooted that to ask many of the Chinese that I know to cut off their queues would have much the same effect as asking them to cut off a leg.

"With the present unrest which prevails in various parts of the empire, I believe that the action is too drastic to meet with favor. The wearing of the queue dates back to the invasion of the Manchurians, 300 years ago, when the invaders demanded that the heads of all Chinese be shaved. Thousands were beheaded because they failed to comply with the order, and the wearing of the braid expresses the Chinese determination not to submit to the edict of what they regard as an alien race."

ANTI-AMERICAN FEELING IN MEXICO

Riots in City of Mexico and In Guadalajara

For three hours Thursday night a mob of several hundred men and boys of the lower class, incited by the inflammatory speeches of students of some of the State schools, paraded the streets of Guadalajara, Mex., imitating the rioters in the national capital in a manifestation against Americans and intended as a protest against the Rock Springs, Tex., lynching.

Considerable property was damaged but so far as known no lives were lost. The city practically is under martial law and it is believed the riot is well in the control of State and Federal troops. Police detachments and the Tenth Federal Cavalry are guarding the American consulate, where Consul Samuel E. Magill was threatened with violence.

Four squadrons of the same troops are patrolling the American residence section and downtown police are guarding the American business houses. General Clemente Vilaznor, commander of the Fourth Federal zone, together with State and Federal troops, anticipated the trouble and called out their entire armed force.

In the absence of Governor Maguail Ahumada, who is ill, Manuel Cuesta Gallardo, who will be Governor next year, spent the day and night addressing the different groups of men who are bent on making trouble for Americans. The better class of citizens are keeping close to their homes.

Windows were broken by the mob in a dozen American business places. The financial loss will be considerable. Commercial houses in the center of the town are barricaded with shutters.

In the Capital.

Repressive measures adopted by the Mexican authorities prevented a repetition of Wednesday's scenes in Mexico City, and resulted in a day of comparative tranquility. An attempt by the demonstrators to gather late Thursday afternoon in the neighborhood of the new National Theater was discouraged by the mounted police, who kept the crowds moving.

The Foreign Office has assured Ambassador Wilson that there will be no repetition of the rioting. Strict orders have been given to the police, Minister Creel said, to prevent by vigorous measures, if necessary, gatherings in the streets.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

Between 50 and 70 men are believed to be entombed in Mine Number 3 of the Victor American Fuel Company at Delagua, located 21 miles northwest of Trinidad, Colo., as the result of an explosion. Fifty men came out alive and unharmed through Mine Number 2, which is connected with the main Mine Number 3, and according to reports to the mine officers they did not even know there had been an explosion in Number 3. If this report is true, the explosion, which badly caved the entrance to Number 3, did not extend far into the mine, and it is hoped, therefore, that the men far within the workings are unharmed.

N. C. Faulding, a merchant of Santa Barbara, where his wife and four children live, committed suicide by throwing himself under the wheels of a freight train at Seattle. His head was severed from the body.

The races of the local motorcycle club had a tragic ending at Long Beach, Cal., when G. C. Clayton was fatally and Allen Murphy seriously injured. Clayton, Murphy and William Brydon were going fifty miles an hour, the former leading. On a bridge on Signal hill, back of the city, one of Clayton's tires burst and he was thrown and stunned. Murphy, unable to stop, ran over his head, fracturing the skull. Murphy also was thrown and bruised from head to foot. Brydon, by a quick turn, barely avoided the two victims lying in the road.

Samuel McDaniel, a rancher south of Bakersfield, Cal., was accidentally shot to death when his shotgun was discharged as he sat on the seat of his wagon. McDaniel was hauling hay, and had the gun between his legs ready to shoot at rabbits as he drove along. The wagon lurched into a chuckhole, knocking the gun from his grasp. It fell on the wagon tongue and exploded. McDaniel received the full charge in his leg and abdomen and died within an hour. He was 48 years old, unmarried, and leaves a brother in Visalia.

Fritz Mayer of Richmond, Cal., fell from a beach car at Second avenue and Lincoln way, San Francisco, Sunday afternoon and sustained a fracture of the skull. He was taken to the Park Emergency Hospital. His recovery is doubtful.

THE TRAPPED DESPERADO.

A Woman Enters Into the Work of Catching Him.

By MARY EDMONDS.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Half a dozen men were scrambling over rocks, fallen trees, underbrush and such debris as will get wedged in a narrow defile, slowly making their way upward and onward. Coming to an open space just big enough to hold a 10 by 12 cabin, they saw a woman standing before the door watching their approach.

"Have any o' you men seen Hank Speer down that a-way?" she asked.

"No," replied one of the party; "we haven't saw Speer."

The woman looked disappointed.

"What y' want with him?" asked the other.

"I want to kill him."

"What's he done to you?"

"What's he done? Done 'nough. He brought me up here, tellin' me he had a fine house and lots o' sheep. I hadn't never been here and didn't know nothin' at all about what kind of a kentry it was. This mis'able hut's the fine house he was talkin' about, and the sheep is all up on the divide. They haven't been tamed yet. I told him what I thort of a man who'd treat a woman that a-way. He jist tuk up a piece o' brushwood and was goin' to brain me with it when I lit out. He follered me a spell, but it's mighty thick up here, and he lost me. When I come back he was gone. Say, y' sure y' hain't seen nothin' of him down thar?"

"Air you Speer's wife?"

"Waal, there warn't no un to marry us when we come up here."

"Do you want us to find him for you?"

"Reckon I do, and when y' find him I want y' to hold him while I shoot him."

The men consulted in an undertone; then Quigley, who had carried on the conversation thus far, continued it.

"We're out puspectin' and don't want to waste no time, but if one kin do anything to sarve a lone woman as has been treated bad we don't mind doin' it—that is, if it don't take up too much time. Speer hain't gone down below, 'cause if he had we'd 'a' met him. He couldn't go up the divide on either side o' the crick, 'cause it would be too hard climbin'. Consekently he must 'a' gone up the can'on. How far is it up to the top?"

"I dunno. Speer jist brought me here a spell ago."

"We kin git him for you, no doubt about that, for the can'on ends in a cliff he can't git over."

"Y' musn't let on yer after him. He knows all about this yere gulch, and if he knowed y' wanted him he mought find a way out y' never heered about."

There was further consultation between the men while the woman stood on her porch waiting. She was an angular creature with frowzy hair and a dirty calico dress.

"How would it do," asked Quigley, "for you to go after him, pertend you was sorry for what you'd said to him and bring him back to yer cabin? We kin hide about here, and as soon as you git him inside we mought see that he done y' no harm, you doin' what you like with him."

"'Twouldn't do at all. Reckon he's huntin' for me now to kill me."

While the men continued to confer the woman appeared to be thinking.

"I tell y' what," she said presently, "Ef one o' you'll lend me yer clothes

I might go up the can'on, steal around Hank Speer, git above him and then, showin' up as a man, drive him down into yer clutches."

"That sounds well," said Quigley, and he asked the others what they thought of the proposition.

All agreed that since they were to help the woman she should do as much as possible in the matter. None of them seemed to relish climbing the rough ground between them and the upper end of the canyon. The man nearest the woman's height divested himself of his outer garments, and she retired and put them on.

"You better tell us," said Quigley, "before y' go what colored clothes Speer's wearin', so's we'll know the difference between y'."

"He hain't got but one woolen shirt and one pair breeches. The shirt is blue; the breeches is corduroy. His hat is black."

"All right," responded Quigley. "Take notice, boys, that the woman's shirt and breeches are gray and her hat almost the same color. We needn't mistake one for t'other."

The woman took a rifle from the hut and soon disappeared up the narrow gorge, leaving the men in occupation of the cabin.

"Waal," said Quigley, "reckon we got him purty sartin and without much trouble. A wildcat couldn't git out o' this can'on above us, and when he comes down all we got to do is to take him."

"We're in luck, sheriff," said Tom Bowles. "It's woth $100 apiece to climb over these rocks and underbrush. Y' done a cute trick in gittin' the woman's help. Considerin' we don't git nothin' but thanks for the job, I don't mind leavin' it to her."

"She may shoot him and save us the trouble o' hangin' him," said Enoch Darby, the man who had exchanged clothes.

"How d' y' know," asked Abe Williams, "she ain't foolin' us and goin' up thar to help him out in the fix he's in?"

"Oh, she's had a hard time with him," said the sheriff. "The women these jayhawkers take up with always do. Most of the men I've taken has been given away by their partners. But it doesn't matter in this case. We've got him penned up in a place a painter couldn't git out of, and I don't see what she can do to help him if she wants to."

For two hours the sheriff's posse waited developments. Then a shot reverberated up the canyon.

"What'd I tell y'?" exclaimed Quigley. "The woman's tryin' to kill him."

"Like enough he's tryin' to kill her," said Darby.

"The kentry 'd be well rid o' both of 'em," put in Williams. "The women o' this kind is wose 'n the men."

The party listened for another shot, but heard none. They passed the time debating the probabilities concerning the one that had been fired. Some supposed the man had killed the woman, while others maintained that, she being in man's dress, he would not know her as his woman, whereas she would know him. Therefore, there being but one shot, it was probable she had caught sight of him and killed him.

"I'll bet any man $10," said Darby, "she's back within half an hour and reports him dead."

"If she does," said Williams, "I won't believe her. Easiest thing in the world for her to throw us off the track that a-way."

Abe Darby retorted, "Y' wouldn't believe Speer was dead if y' seen him lyin' before y' with a hole in his head."

"Not if a woman had anything to do with it," snarled Abe.

"Abe's right," said Tom Bowles. "Nobody can't tell nothin' about what a woman's a-goin' to do. My opinion is that this villain has treated his woman pretty much as she says he has, but it's my opinion, too, that instead of killin' him or runnin' him for us she'll git him out if she can."

"I'd like to know how she's a-goin' to do it," Quigley remarked earnestly. "Ef he kin git out o' the can'on at all he kin do it as well without her as with her. We got the bulge on him, seein' he's built his cabin on the only outlet. There's no pass on either side of us that a cat could get over."

It was not long after this that a stone was heard rolling a short distance up the canyon, leaping over rocks, thumping against tree trunks and finally falling into the creek. Every man jumped to his feet, seized the weapon he had laid aside and cocked it. They waited several minutes, when a shot rang out, and, looking up at a ledge on the opposite side of the canyon from that on which the bowlder had rolled, they saw a figure in light gray clothes such as had been lent to the woman pointing a rifle toward the spot from which the stone had rolled.

"Come on, boys!" shouted Quigley. "He's up there where she's p'intin' the gun."

Every man started up the canyon toward the spot indicated. Another shot rang out from the rifle on the ledge, after which the posse entered the brush and saw no more of the figure that fired it. Loose stones and dirt were dislodged as if by some one hurrying away. Quigley and his men pursued on, but the fugitive kept ahead of them. Finally they chased him into a pocket from which there was no escape. A figure in a dark blue shirt and corduroy trousers stood on a rock holding up his hands in token of surrender. Weapons were lowered, and the party advanced.

"You cussed galoots!" cried Abe Williams. "It's the woman."

True enough she had changed clothes with the man she had volunteered to drive into their clutches, he had pretended to fire at himself to get them out of their position, and as soon as they had gone he had descended, taken the only available outlet, past his cabin and was now running like a deer to a more open country. He had got too great a start from them to warrant their trying to overtake him, and they were not sufficiently energetic to make the attempt.

"Yer a mighty cute woman," said Quigley to her who had fooled him.

"Y' got t' git up purty early in the mornin' to ketch Mag Speer a-nappin'."

"Y' are married then?"

"Reckon I am married. Hank and I been married fifteen years."

"I tole y'," growled Abe Williams, "ef there was a woman in the case 'd git beat."

given at Green's Hall on Saturday evening, December 3d next. General admission will be 25 cents.

Misses Pearl and May Delaney attended the indoor picnic and dance last Saturday.

The Woodmen of the World are busy practicing for their minstrel show on the 23d of this month.

To-night an entertainment and dance will be given at Green's Hall by the ladies of the Catholic Church. Attend and have a good time.

It took the election officers in San Bruno precinct until 7 o'clock Wednesday morning to finish reading the ballots cast on Tuesday. There should be two precincts, thereby making the work of the election officers much lighter and getting the result sooner.

Oscar Tuck was arrested for being a deserter by Deputy Constable Seivers and turned over to Lieutenant Treadwell of the Coast Artillery, at the Presidio, San Francisco. Tuck was born in Roseps, South Dakota, enlisted at Springfield, Missouri, in October, 1908, and left the service in 1909.

Ellis Reeves returned last Monday from his visit to New Jersey. After an absence of fourteen years from his native town he noted many changes, however. He could not conform to the conditions, which are opposite to the California methods, to which he has become accustomed since leaving there. California is good enough for Ellis, and he is satisfied this state is the best one in the galaxy of the union. He also visited several other states during the trip.

The election last Tuesday was a quiet one in San Bruno. The busiest time the election officers experienced was at the opening of the polls, as great many desired to vote before going to work. More than one-half of the votes were polled before 10 o'clock. Many friends of candidates worked for their respective favorites from the time the polls opened to the close. Much enthusiasm prevailed about 10 p. m. when it became known who the successful candidates of the day were. Now that it is over, everyone is satisfied with the result.

To our German friends we would like to state a fact which may not be generally known that they have a German physician at San Bruno. Dr. E. A. Bohm. Telephone, Junction House.

PROCEEDINGS OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of supervisors held a regular meeting at Redwood City last Monday with Supervisors McEvoy, Casey and Coleman present.

Monthly reports of the various county officials were presented, accepted and filed.

A petition was received from the Colma Ladies' Improvement Club asking the board to set apart a triangular piece of ground at Colma, on which the mission bell had recently been erected, the ladies agreeing to maintain it as a park.

The communication was referred to Supervisor Casey.

A communication was received from Henrietta Madden of San Bruno complaining of a ditch in front of her premises, and asking that it be bridged before the winter sets in, as she desires to lay a sidewalk in front of her property. This communication was also referred to Casey.

Captain Raymond of San Francisco sent a communication inquiring as to what wharf facilities were to be had at San Mateo and Redwood City for the handling of freight, it being his intention to establish a steamboat service between San Francisco bay points.

The communication was referred to the boards of trade of the two cities.

Our fall stock of kimona, vicuna and tennis flannels is now on display at Schneiders.

DEVELOPMENT BOARD PROGRESS BULLETIN

The following bulletin is based on special reports by reliable authorities from various counties, covering almost every section of the state:

Crops generally have been good and farmers and fruit growers are well-satisfied with the season's results. Citrus fruit shipments for 1909-1910 are about over, and the movement of the new crop has already begun, being some two weeks earlier than usual.

Deciduous fruit shipments are somewhat less than at same date last year, but apples and grapes will keep the total up to the mark.

Sugar beets are giving good returns, both as to yield and saccharine content.

The bean crop has come well up to expectations, and in some places is above the record.

The demand for beef, mutton and pork exceeds the supply.

Dairy and poultry industries are thriving, yet the production is still far short of the consumption.

The cotton crop of Imperial is yielding beyond expectations, many tracts making one and a half and two bales to the acre. The fibre is excellent and commanding top price. Six gins are actively at work.

Oil and mining developments continue reasonably active.

The Noble Electric Steel Company are preparing to install five new furnaces at Heroult.

In every quarter public and private construction is going actively on and new enterprises are being inaugurated.

The influx of homeseekers is large and increasing, and many new colonization enterprises are being inaugurated. The tourist travel is also very large, taxing the capacity of the transportation companies.

As an indication of general conditions it may be stated that bank clearing reported to the California Development Board from seven of the clearing house cities of the state show an increase for October of 21 per cent over October, 1909.

Eight hundred and ninety-three new registrations of motor vehicles were made with the secretary of state during the month of September.
